

GROUP ACTIVITY

Gangadharpur Mahavidyamandir
Department of Political Science

I

To encourage students to stay on the path of academic growth and help them develop deeper insights in the subject, the Department organises seminars and workshops from time to time. With speakers and resource persons coming from various other institutions, the students are exposed to different thoughts and approaches. These in turn help to widen their horizons.

II

An important event which make the students aware & acquainted with their own day to day life and also the international world is the YPC in which they act, they become lively and also gain the knowledge directly. They enjoy, as they come closer to different colleges and develop the feeling of oneness ,sharing & cooperation.

III

A biannual wall magazine named "Khas khabor" and an annual students magazine named "kuri", addressing various political and social issues through writings and visuals, cater to the creative cravings of the students and faculty even as they help a deeper understanding of the topics covered.

Departmental projects, almost all of them involving villages around the college, do not just teach students the use of various tools they will require in research and other academic pursuits but also have a social impact in the communities they work in.

To widen students skill and knowledge we also arrange study tours outside our rural campus. It not only widens their outlook it also helps them develop friendship, love and cooperation.

IV

We also observe special days like Swamiji's birthday, Netaji's birthday, Women's day, Independence day, Constitution day, Voter's day, to cultivate group feeling, love and fraternity among ourselves and develop right sense of duties given by our Constitution.

V

Our mission is to encourage students and community interactions to transfer knowledge and make them partners in socio-economic upliftment.

To use education to inculcate honesty, sincerity, compassion and secular values.
